

The darn buttonhole rod

The perfect trick to mystify your friends!

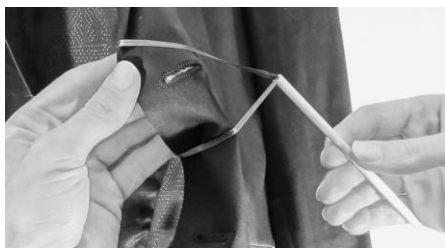

The stick is not prepared and the loop is slightly shorter than the stick itself. Therefore, it appears impossible to thread it into a buttonhole or even to get it off but it still works with a simple trick!

The secret hides in the fact that with the substance of the shirt, waistcoat or jacket, the loop is "extended".

Attaching:

Hold the stick with your right hand and pull some fabric through the loop with your left hand (PICTURE 1)

This means that you can now easily go through the buttonhole with the stick and tighten the loop. (PICTURE 2 and 3)

How to untack the stick:

To take off the stick and loop you just have to repeat all the steps above from the other way round.

Hold the stick at the loopless end with your right hand. Slide it through the loop and back through the buttonhole and pull with your left hand the fabric through the loop until you can free the stick from the buttonhole again.

Have fun!
